Chemistry Professor Wins Lecture Award

Ronald George Cavell, Professor of Chemistry, has been named the winner of the Alcan Lecture Award of the Chemical Institute of Canada. Dr. Cavell is the first recipient of the new award which recognizes distinguished contributions in inorganic or electrochemistry in Canada. The award is valued at $1,000 and is sponsored by the Aluminum Company of Canada.

Dr. Cavell will receive the Award and deliver the lecture at the 62nd Chemical Conference and Exhibition in Vancouver which runs from 3 to 6 June.

Professor Cavell received his early education in Montreal. He graduated in Chemistry from McGill and studied inorganic chemistry at the University of British Columbia, receiving his PhD in 1962, and at Cambridge where he took a PhD in 1964.

After graduating from Cambridge, Dr. Cavell came to The University of Alberta. In 1971 and 1972 he was on study leave and a guest scientist at the Lawrence Berkeley Laboratory in California where he began experimental work in the field of electron spectroscopy which he continued at this University. He is currently on study leave at the Institute of Physics at Uppsala University. □

Spring Session for Senior Citizens

As Thomas Wolfe said, you can't go home again. You can certainly go to school again, however, as a number of Alberta's senior citizens will demonstrate this spring at the University's Fifth Annual Spring Session for Senior Citizens.

The session has found favor with senior citizens in the past, and the 1979 version seems capable of maintaining that tradition. Fifteen general interest non-credit courses will be taught from 30 April to 18 May. Since there are no prerequisites and no exams, the learning atmosphere is relaxed and congenial. Free accommodation, parking passes, and library passes are tied in with the session, and a scholarship fund has been established to assist students who may encounter difficulty with transportation and registration fees. The latter are set at $5 for first, second and third-year students, and $50 for fourth-year students.

Applications should be addressed to Mrs. Monda Wadsworth, Coordinator, Spring Session for Senior Citizens, Faculty of Extension, The University of Alberta, Edmonton, T6G 2G4. All applications will be handled in a confidential manner.

The course list is composed of: Around the World in Fifteen Days; Conversational French; Intermediate French; Writing Your Community History; Fitness For Senior Citizens; Drawing, Photography and Painting; Humour; The Canadian Identity; A Research Seminar; The Law and You; Creative Writing; Music Appreciation; Gardening in Alberta; Grits and Tories; Canada's Political System; Contemporary Canadian Issues; and You as Manager of Your Health. Senate

The University of Alberta Senate held its first meeting in 1979 on Friday, 23 February. In attendance at the meeting, in addition to Senators and representatives of the news media and University administration, were the executive officers of the Senates of the Universities of Calgary and Lethbridge, Barbara Clark and Jim Dunstan.

New Member

It was reported at the meeting that a new Senator had been appointed by the Minister for Advanced Education and Manpower. Gary Campbell was born in Edmonton and is an alumnus of this University, having received a Bachelor of Commerce degree in 1958 and a Bachelor of Laws degree in 1962. A lawyer with the Edmonton firm of Cormie and Kennedy, Mr. Campbell is married and is father to two children. Mr. Campbell has been very active in community service and has been a director of the YMCA, as well as being closely involved in the United Way, the Citadel Theatre, and the Fort Edmonton Historical Foundation.

Executive Officer Appointed

Also at the meeting on 23 February, the Senate formally appointed its new Executive Officer, Mary Totman. Mrs. Totman, born in the United Kingdom, is a Canadian citizen. She received her baccalaureate degree in History and English at the University of Manchester in 1953 and, since coming to Canada, has gained a wide experience in administration and community endeavors. Formerly Secretary to the President of Concordia College and Secretary to The University of Alberta Senate, Mrs. Totman was appointed Acting Executive Officer in February 1978. Mrs. Totman is a member and former Chairman of the Preventive Social Services Board at Fort Saskatchewan, is a member of Beta Sigma Phi, and is currently Vice-Chairman of the AID Board in Edmonton.

The appointment of the Executive Officer became effective on 1 March and, in the first instance, is for a two year period. The appointment, however, may be renewed for two successive terms at the discretion of the Senate.

Visiting International Students

Perhaps the most weighty matter considered at the meeting on 23 February was the Report of the Task Force on Visiting International Students in Alberta. This report, some two years in the making, comprises a detailed exposition of many of the problems which surround the presence and the lives of visiting international students at this campus.

Under the direction of its chairman, Dr. J.R. Kandler, the Task Force investigated all aspects of the visa student reality and, as a result, dispelled (for those who read the report) the myth that such students are a burden to Albertan society. In fact, the Task Force was of the opinion that visiting international students constitute a very definite asset and that a strong case should be made before the public in support of the presence of such students at post-secondary institutions in Alberta. According to the Report, "over fifty-five percent of Alberta's population is of non-Anglo Saxon origin. Nowhere else in Canada is the acceptance of the concept of multiculturalism or retention of cultural heritage more universal than in Alberta."

The Report, which should be required reading for anyone interested in gaining an informed opinion, did not deal with generalities. Rather it summarizes the issues involved and makes specific recommendations on a wide variety of topics to the University's administration, the Government of Alberta, and the student organizations.

For example, it is the belief of the majority of the Task Force that "differential fees" should be abolished and that, if this is not possible, the revenues accruing from such fees be used to support scholarship programs for visa students.

On the principle of a balanced student mix, the Report had this to say:

"The Task Force feels that the disproportionate number of visa students from Hong Kong is the single most important reason for the existence of what may be called the Foreign Student issue. The Task Force could not define what an ideal mix of students would be. The only conclusion reached was that ideally, there should be a more even balance from among all areas of the world.

The fact that neither the government, nor the University, nor the student body refer to this imbalance openly has encouraged the public to draw its own conclusions, however inappropriate, for lack of official and factual information.

Why is there no official acknowledgment of the imbalance referred to? We believe the reason to be primarily because of a mistaken view that any official reference may be in conflict with the existing Human Rights legislation. Moreover, it is feared that a public debate of the situation might provoke the need for a statement of policy by the government as well as the University and the consequent risk of being branded discriminatory or racist.

To some there may even be a reason to question the degree of commitment of the University to the presence of visa students. Otherwise ways would have been found long ago to make a case for foreign students on campus to the general public on the basis of a realistic, but forward-looking policy, rather than just reiterating the protest against the imposition of the differential fee by the Provincial Government.

The result of the official silence on the point of student mix is that there are only the most general admission policies in effect. The general attitude, passive rather than supportively active in the matter of visa students, could be likened to the economic principle of laissez-faire: 'May the best equipped, most resourceful applicant succeed.'

It should be mentioned that in earlier years newly established institutions of higher learning in Alberta actively solicited a major student influx from Hong Kong in order to attract a student body of sufficient size to qualify for grants of the magnitude desired, without being overly concerned about the level of service available to these students or the effect on the student population as a whole.

It is a tribute to the drive, ingenuity and perseverance of the student from Hong Kong and his/her extended family that he/she generally leaves no stone unturned in order to secure an education abroad.

The emphasis on securing an education rather than the pursuit of a specific pre-selected program seems to be more typical of the student from Hong Kong than any other group of visa students. This suggests a very realistic, opportunity-oriented approach which, combined with the circumstances described below, would seem to lead quite naturally to an attempt on the part of many to seek landed immigrant status later on, with all the problematic consequences following therefrom. The latter characteristic alone leads us to question whether the Hong Kong student can be considered a typical visa student without qualification.

The survival instinct of the Hong Kong student which expresses itself in his drive to gain a foothold abroad in the first place, appears motivated by the uncertain political future and the overpopulation of his homeland on the one hand and the spirit of keen competitiveness governing educational pursuits in Hong Kong institutions of higher learning on the other hand, which institutions are known to be sadly inadequate for the purpose of accommodating the vast number of high school graduates seeking a university education.

An aspect of the Hong Kong students' apparent academic advantage may stem from the fact that up to 80% of Hong Kong students have attended a Canadian high school or community college in order to meet university entrance requirements. This means they have at least a year to adjust to the Canadian milieu, economy, spoken language, etc., prior to entering university. Moreover, it is a common experience for Hong Kong students to repeat their high school subjects in the Canadian setting, achieving very high academic results in the process.

Not surprisingly, the student may find himself criticized for his adaptability, singlemindedness and his academic achievements once he is on campus, which fact may well appear to him as an injustice. After all, what does one go to university for, if not to study? In this connection, his situation may be likened to that of a new immigrant who puts out to the extent of his capacity and finds himself in conflict with the lower performance of his co-workers.

However, the Task Force does not feel that these characteristics should be penalized; nor do the majority of the Task Force members agree with the use of negative sanctions through quotas based on the country of origin, at this time, to improve the mix in the visa student population. The recommendations in this report support the principle of using affirmative action to encourage students to come from countries presently under-represented at the University. The Task Force recognizes that this action need not necessarily decrease the number of students from Hong Kong, but would hope thereby, to achieve a better balance among visa students."
